2020 Delegation to El Salvador

I went to El Salvador to learn, listen, and show solidarity. We were frequently told ‘you have to remember.’ I learned one semester’s worth of history in 8 days. People do not need to understand the concept of resilience to practice it.

We visited the burial site where 600 Salvadorans were massacred; men, women & children. You have to remember the army attacked them because they were poor and probably supported the guerrillas. The witnesses of these atrocities had the courage to feel the trauma again by sharing what they lived through. They remember.

Children performed a skit of the massacres. You have to remember, they were busy living, washing clothes at the river, making tortillas, working the land. You have to remember the United States gave the Salvadoran army $1,000,000 a day for almost 12 years. These funds were used for munitions and training to massacre their people.

You have to remember civilians, missionaries, nuns, and priests were murdered because they had the audacity to help the poor. I felt the solidarity. I took the dark journey into their past and listened to their pain, sorrow, and hope for the future. I saw resilience everywhere. I will remember.

~ Reanna Thompson
