Reflections from those who come to pray during the hours of Adoration at St. Aloysius.
An hour of awe that brings peace and hope:
For Jesus knows every soul individually as we are told in Psalm 139, “with all my ways you are familiar.”
Even as a sinner, He has not disowned me as we learn in Isaiah, “Fear not, I have redeemed you, I have called you by name, you are Mine.” (Is. 43:1)
It is stunning to think that the God who can not be contained has allowed Himself to be with us in the Eucharist; that the God who became Man and worked miracles of every sort would be willing to wait so patiently for the crumbs of my adoration.
Adoration is Jesus giving again:
a time of quiet in a demanding world, a time to say thank you in a ‘face to face’ situation, a time to ask for advice in difficulties, a time to heal when broken, and a time to be loved unconditionally. Anonymous

Reflections from the U.S./Mexico Border
A group of 7 parishioners spent a week (October 6-12) on the Border to better understand the realities of migration from Mexico into the United States. You are invited to hear their stories and experiences during the weeks ahead.

The wall is a rusty brown line in the desert. The US side is covered in rows of razor wire, while the Mexican side is a vibrant gallery of art and anger. The razor wire is little more than an ugly PR stunt, says the Border Patrol agent who dines with us one night. Indeed, follow the wall far enough out of town and the 18 foot slats give way to vehicle barriers that anyone in our group can hop over or duck under with ease. This is on purpose, a fact even uglier than the wall itself.

Out here, the real wall is the desert: uneven ground, an unending maze of hills, and the unforgiving sun. Desperate people die out here because our policy decrees it. May God have mercy on us for this.

 Volunteer Opportunity
"Marthas and Josephs"

This is a group of dedicated women and men from several parishes who are willing to give their time and talent to have a clean atmosphere for our retreatants. These volunteers clean bedrooms and other areas following a retreat in order to prepare for the next group of retreatants.

Typically they meet on Mondays from 9:00 am-12:00 noon. At noon, the “Marthas and Josephs” are invited to a specially prepared lunch. Annually, each volunteer receives a gift certificate for a “Day of Prayer.” Talk to fellow parishioners and see if you would like to form a group or sign up as an individual. For more information please call Kristen Parker.
